Desktop vs. Cloud – Which version is best for you?

Cloud computing is no longer in its infancy. Thousands of practices have moved some or all their IT to the cloud (well, except printers) as they began to understand the value proposition. You too can benefit from cloud computing in variety of ways: Whether you are a MAC user and simply wish to use our cloud version of the product or you are like millions of others who wish to move their IT in its entirety to the cloud, we can help.

Our products are available in both desktop and cloud versions. With desktop versions, you install and use the software on your local machines. With a cloud version, you simply login anytime, anywhere, on any computer device (Windows/MAC/iPad), use the product and logout. While the value of each offering is different and only you can choose the version that is best for your office, note, ALL software functionally remains same, No new learning required. You can even switch back if one type does not work out for you.

The chart on the next page provides a comparison of Desktop vs. Cloud versions, so you can decide what is best for your working environment. If you wish to move your entire practice to the cloud (all computer devices and software programs), call us at 513-484-9729 to talk about an easy migration plan.
